Palettes of Flavours

by Samuela Urbini

The Infinito collection brings warmth to the table and harmonises perfectly with the nautical lines of the latest Mangusta Oceano 42 by Overmarine

Tableware collections featuring innovative design that create an elegant setting and transform the on-board table into a gallery of culinary art. Created by Infinito using ecological materials like solid wood and Krion acrylic stone

*I*t's the detail that makes all the difference on an elegantly set table. Good food and refinement are necessary prerequisites, but nowadays the way it's presented has become increasingly important. That's where Infinito concentrates its attention, specialising in the production of innovative table accessories with original design, suitable for presentations in luxury restaurants or a mise en place on board yachts whose elegance can compare with the most sumptuous homes. The company, based in Castelvecchio di Monte Porzio, in the province of Pesaro Urbino, produces dishes with clean, refined lines that are the ideal solution for the creation of culinary settings that will enhance any mouthwatering dish. Entirely Made in Italy, the hallmark of a truly superior quality. The brand is helmed by three siblings, production experts Luigi and Carlo Carboni and Laura Carboni, the creative and commercial mind behind Infinito. Laura began her career in the yachtbuilding sector, an experience that has inspired some of the main themes of the brand's designs - innovation, attention to detail and a constant quest for the unusual.

All this underpins the launch of the Quadrilatero line, designed to complement several flavours on the same plate while ensuring every component of the dish remains distinct and unchanged. Straight lines shape the edges and geometrical forms within the plates, with an interesting choice of materials, an important factor for Infinito - here, some solid wood inserts combine with Krion, a very elegant acrylic stone, warm to the touch, with no pores, so extremely hygienic and totally recyclable. Developed by Systempool, a Spanish company that is part of the Gruppo Porcelanosa, Krion is also used in the TeGusto collection, designed in collaboration with Cristina Zanni. It is available in white with slate accessories, suitable at all times of day for sweet and savoury foods.

Nature's own colours and perfumes are brought to the table with the Legno line, made from solid FSC-certified materials that respect environmental, social and economic forestation standards. Perfect for enjoying cold meats and cheese with preserves and honey, but also for tastings in the wine cellar or for sampling desserts.
